BIG STOCK TRADES TRACED TO BRUNO AFTER APRIL 1932

Wall Street Plunge of

MISTRIAL DEMAND OF DEFENSE DENIED

Girl Ticket-Seller in New

Accused as Passer of Ransom Bill.

By JOHN FERRIS.
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—(AP)—How Bruno Richard Hauptmann suddenly quit his carpenter's job when the Lindbergh ransom was paid and plunged in fat figures into Wall Street was told to his murder trial jury today.

Hope that the state could rest its case tomorrow against the accused kidnaper-killer of the famous baby was voiced by one member of the prosecution staff, but others expressed doubt at a conference this evening that the testimony would be completed before Wednesday night or Thursday.

After a treasury agent had reeled off figures that disclosed marginal stock purchases of $256,442.15 in 1932, the timekeeper of a New York apartment project produced books this afternoon to show that Hauptmann failed to work on April 2, 1932, and returned only once after that.

It was on April 2, 1932, that Dr. John E. "Jafar" Kaplan paid the $200,000 to a man he had identified as Hauptmann in a Bronx cemetery. Since then, the state says it can prove, the once thrifty carpenter financed every cent of the ransom money, passing most of it into the stock market, spending some of it on himself and hiding the rest.

Late today prosecutors called upon Mrs. Cecilia Barr, ticket seller at Loew's Sheridan Square theater, who identified Hauptmann as the man who bought a ticket with a folded $5 ransom bill the night of November 28, 1932.

At one point, a defense cross-question to the young woman's testimony brought a hiss from a spectator. She had been asked if she expected a movie contract for her testimony.

The pale defendant listened with close attention—almost, it seemed, with satisfaction. He was E. Frank, an agent of the intelligence unit of the treasury department, related stock deal after stock deal.

Timekeeper on Stand.
He was followed by Edward F. Morton, timekeeper at the Majestic apartments, New York, who testified Hauptmann began working there about 12 days before the ransom payment date, but did not show up on April 2.

On April 4 he came back, collected his wages, and failed to reappear.

Snow, Mercury at 20 Due in Atlanta Today

Winter Storm Causing Death and Destruction in North and Southwest Slated to Sweep
Into Georgia; Monday's High 71 Here.

Twenty-degree weather, a drop of 51 degrees from the high reading of 71 at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, is predicted for Atlanta and vicinity this morning by Forecaster George W. Minding. Snow also is forecast for the city today. He bases his prophecy on a cold wave sweeping out of the northwest, due to reach this city Monday night, and on zero weather that gripped large areas of the south Monday night with sleet and snowstorms adding to suffering already severe in some states because of flooded rivers.

Should the 20-degree forecast for today in Atlanta materialize, it not only will record one of the fastest drops of the mercury in the history of the local weather station, but also will bring the coldest temperature of 1935, the previous low for the year being 25 degrees on January 2. The lowest in this winter in Atlanta was 16 degrees recorded on December 12.

At the same time Mr. Minding revealed that the 71-degree temperature Monday afternoon was the highest in this city for 1935. The lowest reading Monday was 43.

The forecast also voiced his belief that snow would fall in Atlanta today, but said he did not anticipate any heavy fall.

Cold Wave Sweeps South.
Most of the larger southern cities reported rapidly falling temperatures Monday. The mercury dropped from 60 degrees at 8 a. m. to 41 degrees at 3 p. m. in Birmingham; from 70 to 50 degrees for the same period of time in New Orleans; from 54 to 28 in Vicksburg; from 52 to 44 at Chattanooga; from 24 to 16 at Memphis;

Additional Five Per Cent
Cut in Salaries Ordered for All City Employees.

City council adopted, and Mayor James L. Rouse, on Monday afternoon, a budget for the year, calling for expenditures of $14,301,493.14. It was the first time, according to Mayor Key, in the history of the city that council and mayor have approved the finance sheet the same afternoon.

By this action city employees will be enabled to receive their month-pay checks, which were due last Saturday, at once.

The budget was adopted by council in less than one minute and won the approval of the aldermanic board and that of Mayor Key scarcely less expeditiously. It provides an additional 5 per cent salary cut for all city employees, making the basic cut for those receiving $100 or more per month 15 per cent and instituting a 5 per cent cut for those receiving less than $100.

Introduced by Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the finance committee, the motion was promptly seconded and adopted without debate and with no dissenting vote. Chairman Milam explained that his committee had "cut to the bone and then scraped the bone."

Last year employees receiving more than $100 per month took a basic pay cut of 10 per cent.

Employees receiving $50 monthly, took a 15 per cent cut in their own pay for the year, making their salaries $42.50 per month.

The rapid action on the budget Monday gave the city a finance sheet presumably acceptable to the banks, within two weeks after organization of the 1935 council. Last year it took two and one-half months to reach the same goal, after council had twice adopted a sheet that the mayor just as promptly vetoed. Finally, on March 11, a compromise budget for 1934 was adopted.

This year the mayor had warned of a bill setting up $125,000 for developments of state's resources.

INSURGENT BLOC FURTHER DELAYS RELIEF PROGRAM

Leaders of Powerful
Rules Committee Revolt Against 'Gag' Rule Passage of Works Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—An unexpected and determined revolt against democratic leaders' plans to jam the administration's $4,880,000,000 relief program through the house tomorrow under a "gag" rule was successfully staged today by insurgents in the powerful rules committee.

At least another day of delay became certain after rebellious committee members balked at the request of their leaders for rigid procedure during the house consideration of the bill granting vast powers to the president.

Speaker Byrnes and other democratic leaders, with White House pressure on them to get the bill to the senate by tomorrow night, were in a quandary. Repeated efforts to get the democratic committee majority together on procedure failed after long conferences which Byrnes attended.

Irked by the mystery with which Chairman Buchanan, democrat, Texas, has handled the legislation, the rebels, including Representative Smith, of Virginia, Dies of Texas, Lewis, of Colorado, and Cox, of Georgia, demanded consideration of the measure in the house.

Recess Forced.
Chairman O'Connor, democrat, New York, presiding at the first meeting of the rules committee since congress organized, was urged to recess the session until tomorrow when he would not consent to strict gag procedure.

While efforts were made tonight to get the democrats together, the rebellious membership conferred to determine what stand they will take on the bill.

Under cover resentment against granting blanket authority to the chief executive to delegate power to subordinates to handle distribution of the big fund for work projects has been growing in the house since the proposal was submitted.

Officials Heard.
Rushing hearings on the bill today, Chairman Buchanan had Secretary Quakerstown, in Bucks county, Pa., and his companion, Harry Campbell, sped over eastern Pennsylvania highways tonight, hotly pursued by federal, state and local forces of law.

The full force of the state police and the federal government in the area was thrown into the hunt for America's public enemy No. 1 and his wounded companion, who blasted their way out of a police trap in Atlantic City yesterday, and made good their escape from New Jersey.

They were trailed today into the wild and lonely Haycock mountain country, 40 miles north of Philadelphia, and about 100 miles from the scene of their machine-gunning break from an Atlantic City hotel.

There, two and a half miles from Quakerstown, in Bucks county, on the fringe of the hilly, wooded Haycock area, the green sedan they stole in their flight from the shore was found. Bullets had ripped its body in the rear and smashed its windshield. In it several machine-gun shells were found.

From the spot on the lonely farm from which they deserted the car, three courses lay open to them, and tonight authorities gave chase over the three roads.

One of the most likely was that they had obtained another car—probably one of seven reported stolen in Bucks county during the day—and roared toward Philadelphia, hoping to make good their escape with the aid of one of the heaviest fogs to drop on eastern Pennsylvania in years.

The second was that they had taken to the Haycock mountains, there to go into hiding in order that the wounds Campbell, a machine-gunning pal of the gangster, wanted in the Bremer kidnaping, suffered in the break from Atlantic City yesterday may be treated.

See Near Philadelphia.
The third possibility—and this was considered remote—was that after obtaining another car they had headed north and west, speeding into the more mountainous regions of central Pennsylvania.

Credence was lent to the possibility that their immediate destination was Philadelphia when the Bucks county police broadcast an alarm that two men, one identified as Karpis, the other probably Campbell, had been sighted in Doylestown county seat, 25 miles north of Philadelphia, and were working as usual.

U. S. TO GET PLEA FOR WORM FUND

Georgians To Outline Needs to Secretary Wallace Today.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will be asked tomorrow by the Georgia delegation in congress to prepare a formal recommendation for the house appropriations committee outlining the scope of federal funds needed for combatting ravages of the screw worm in the southeastern states.

Accompanied by State Entomologist M. S. Yeomans, of Georgia, who returned to Washington today, with a delegation, will call in the department head in a body, laying before him a mass of data collected on the injury done to live stock in the region by the pest. Dr. Lee A. Strong, chief of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, will also take part in the conference.

Georgia members are prepared to present to Secretary Wallace estimates made by Mr. Yeomans that a special fund of $150,000 to $200,000 will be necessary in the state for a proper educational control program, with $25,000 additional for research.

At the same time, however, it will be urged upon the department head that the federal funds be made large enough for extending the campaign throughout other states of the section where evidences of infestation have been found. Just what the total needs of the situation are in the entire affected area remains to be seen.

While several bills have already been introduced in both houses asking funds for a control-eradication campaign, the state group has determined that the best method of approach lies in seeking an amendment to the agriculture department annual appropriation bill which now is being considered by the house committee. Action on this bill is scheduled to be taken much earlier than would be possible on a special bill.

To this end Georgia congressmen have held preliminary conferences with officials of the bureau of the budget and have obtained assurances from Director Daniel W. Bell that he will approve any estimates presented on the subject by Secretary Wallace. It is customary for items in the various departmental supply bills to be handled in this manner.

Thus, the purpose of the conference with Mr. Wallace tomorrow. He is expected to arrive on the scene some time around 1 a. m. tomorrow.

Close behind was the German steamer Saarland, a 14-knot craft, which reported she hoped to reach the burning ship some time in the early morning hours.

ASSEMBLY MOVES TO RETIRE DEFICIT

Talmadge Budget Message Lists $9,375,000;
Redwine Asks Diversion.

Plans for the complete paying off of the state's deficit of $4,024,000 immediately were under way Monday as the general assembly resumed its organization session to receive Governor Eugene Talmadge's budget message and a number of important pieces of legislation.

In his budget message the governor called for appropriations totaling $9,375,000 in 1936 and $9,304,000 in 1937 and also asked that a $148,000 fund be made available at once to the Milledgeville hospital to pay past due obligations and President Charles D. Redwine, of the state senate, announced that he would ask the senate appropriations committee to substitute for the Talmadge-sponsored bill to divert $2,000,000 in accrued highway funds to pay on the balance of the deficit a bill which not only would divert that $2,000,000 but also would redress the general fund of $1,600,000 discounted rentals of the Western & Atlantic railroad to be discounted at banks and applied on the debt.

Inasmuch as President Redwine is considered an administration wheeler, it is expected that the governor will approve the additional diversion if adopted by the house and senate.

Should the Redwine plan be enacted and the rental certificates discounted for with 10 per cent of the future value the total diversion would be something like $3,400,000, which, coupled with the special appropriation to the Milledgeville hospital, would leave less than a half-million dollars owed by the state, most of which would be taken up by the diversion of an income tax fund of $300,000 which the assembly is expected to approve. These actions would leave only a small balance which can be paid out of general revenues.

In addition to the budget message the legislature received a number of important bills, including one for a

After Governor Eugene Talmadge had personally appeared before the committee and replied to charges of Chairman Marion Smith, of the board of regents, and Chancellor Philip Weltner, of the university system, the house committee on the state of the republic, by a vote of 29 to 6, Monday agreed to report favorably on the governor's bill which will invalidate the regents' projected loan from the public works administration.

STATUS OF GIFTS TO BE UNCHANGED

Amendments Made in Original Bill; Speaker
Pro Tem. Arnall Leads Minority Group.

The six members voting against favorably reporting the measure announced that they would submit minority report, which assured a fight on the floor over the bill.

The big committee majority for the governor came after the group had so amended the original bill that it states unequivocally that funds and properties donated to the university system by branches would not become the property of the state and that matriculation fees, laboratory fees and other fees of the various institutions in which they were collected, and which accrue to the institutions in which they were collected, should be turned into the general treasury of the state remains in the bill.

Smith, Weltner Speak.
The committee acted after hearing addresses by Chairman Smith and Chancellor Weltner against the measure and by Representative H. E. Edwards, of Lowndes county, chairman of the committee, in behalf of it. The committee also heard from Representative Ellis G. Arnall, of Coweta county, the house speaker pro tem., name heads the list of those signing the minority report.

In addition to Arnall the following voted against the measure: Jones, of Lumpkin; Pound, of Hancock; Preston, of Walton; Townsend, of De Kalb; and Bennett, of Ware.

The governor's bill made impassioned speeches in behalf of the measure. The issue was the governor was asked to look advantage of the opportunity to hear the committee and spectators, who filled the hall of the house in which the committee was held. The spectators were made up of only a few citizens but members of the house, not assigned to the committee, and of senators who took advantage of the opportunity to hear the committee and spectators, who filled the hall of the house in which the committee was held. Veto Threat Reiterated.
Appearing as the last witness before the committee, Governor Talmadge reiterated his threat, made earlier in the day in his budget message, to eliminate by veto from the appropriations bill any appropriation to the university system in the event the bill, which makes the regents officers of the state of Georgia instead of officers of a separate corporation set up to handle the affairs of the university system, is adopted.

"I am the best friend the university system has in Georgia and I love that school which I attended as a boy," the governor said. "It is be-

Georgia and Florida Tag Pact in Effect

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A reciprocal motor vehicle license agreement between Florida and Georgia today became effective as George H. Wilder, state motor vehicle commissioner, signed a pact and mailed it to Georgia.

Under more than a year's negotiations between the two states the agreement was drawn up last week when Paul H. Doyal, chairman of the Georgia revenue commission, came here to confer with Wilder and Governor Dave Sholtz.

The agreement was first signed by Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, and Governor Sholtz, of Florida, and it regulates the licensing and operation of vehicles of either state traveling across the state line. It provides for a 30-mile free zone on either side of the Georgia-Florida state line in which cars and trucks will be allowed to operate without being required to buy a license for both states. It also allows four trips a month beyond the free zone without the necessity of an additional tag.

starts at the table

How you feel and how you look depend largely on the foods you eat. The balanced menu provides the "hull" to prevent common constipation—caused by lack of this essential fiber.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a natural food for normal individuals. It furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. All-Bran also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoons of All-Bran daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If relief is not obtained, see your doctor.

Serve All-Bran as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

State May Rest Case Today; Defense Motion for New Trial Denied.

thereafter, Morton's records and Hauptmann's time card showed. They were admitted as evidence over defense objections.

Frank revealed, in brief, that Hauptmann's brokerage account deposits between April 2, 1932, the date of the ransom payment, and September 19, 1932, the date of his arrest, totaled $16,942.75, and his bank deposits, $9,073.25, a total of $26,016. This sum, added to the $14,000 in ransom certificates found in the carpenter's Bronx garage, the $120 gold coins found in his home, and the $3,750 he spent to buy a mortgage, brought the grand total to $44,486, Frank said.

The prosecution is expected to show further that Hauptmann loaned Isador Fisch, his German furrier friend, $7,500, a sum that would bring the grand total of Hauptmann's monetary possessions above the amount of the ransom.

The testimony of Frank, prolonged by sharp cross-examination from Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense staff, led to Reilly's second unsuccessful demand for a mistrial late in the day.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, on re-direct examination, had elicited that Hauptmann bought 800 shares of Curtiss-Wright Aviation stock. Then he asked:

"Do you know what business Colonel Lindbergh is in?"

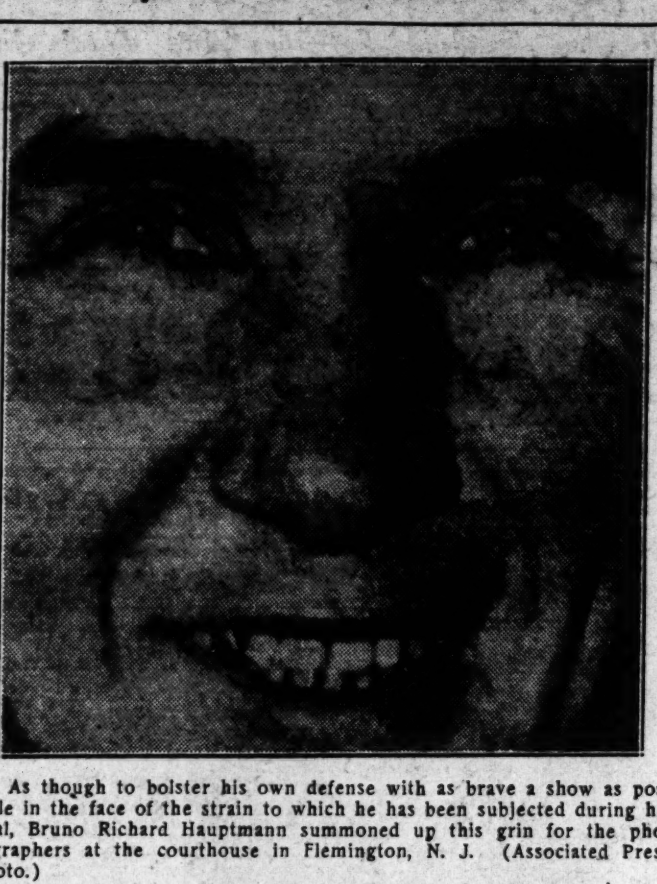

Reilly said this was "merely an attempt to get again before this jury, in an improper way, Lindbergh's interest in aviation, and respectfully asked for a mistrial."

Motion Denied.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trencard denied the motion.

Frank, a certified public accountant, said the Hauptmann had $208.90 on deposit in the Central Savings bank, New York, on April 2, 1932. They also owned 50 shares of Warner

Hauptmann Produces a Grin

As though to bolster his own defense with as brave a show as possible in the face of the strain to which he has been subjected during his trial, Bruno Richard Hauptmann summoned up this grin for the photographers at the courthouse in Flemington, N. J. (Associated Press photo.)

Brother stocks, purchased for $987.50, but with a market value of only $100 on that day.

Between the ransom payment date and the date of Hauptmann's arrest, the carpenter's brokerage account losses were $5,728.63. Before the ransom payment date they were $3,403.66.

Hauptmann, Frank said, opened his first brokerage account on November 1, 1929, and in that year bought $1,196 worth of stock.

In the year 1930 the "cost" of the stocks he sold was $3,913.13; the following year $2,536, and in 1932, $4,905.25.

Then came the big year of 1933 when the account was in Mrs. Hauptmann's maiden name, Anna Schoeffler, out of the total cost of stock sold was $256,442.15. There was also a small Hauptmann commodity account that year.

In 1934 Hauptmann's stock transactions were $7,905, with E. A. Pierce & Co., and $3,077.50 with Steiner, Rouse & Co., the firm which held Mrs. Hauptmann's account.

Wire Opened Account.

Reilly, in cross-examination, brought out that Mrs. Hauptmann herself first opened a bank account on October 27, 1924, with $200, and deposited $1,126.38 the next year. In 1926 she deposited $1,860 and in 1927, $2,189.59. When the account was closed January 19, 1928, the deposits totaled $5,377.97, Frank said.

"And that was all before the date of the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, right?"

Reilly then proceeded to an examination of the financial transactions of Hauptmann and his wife, intent on showing, it was apparent, that the carpenter was interested in stock speculations even before the Lindbergh baby was born, and that he had considerable money in those days.

When the court adjourned this afternoon a member of the prosecution staff said such good progress had been made today that the state hopes to complete its case tomorrow.

Hauptmann's car will be offered in evidence and the state will make what it expects will be a successful attempt to have the kidnapper accepted as evidence. Thus far the defense has opposed introduction of the ladder on the grounds its custody has not been clearly traced.

first opened an account with Charles Mott, on November 1, 1929.

Hauptmann deposited $3,000—$200 cash and a check for $2,800—in open bank account, the expert testified.

The German alien's first purchase totaled $2,782, he continued. The balance of $228 was repaid by check to Hauptmann, who deposited in the Central Savings bank.

"On June 30, 1930, almost two years before the kidnapping," Reilly asked, "Hauptmann owned 255 shares of stock?"

Frank affirmed.

The testimony droned on. Each time stock was bought or sold, each time cash was put in the account or taken out, each time a balance was taken on the statement, Reilly had the witness explain fully Hauptmann's Wall Street operations. It was a tedious business.

At the end of August, 1932, the witness added, Hauptmann had a balance of $360 after a withdrawal by check of $746.90.

Trading Continued.

The German carpenter's trading continued throughout September, October, November and December, 1932, "the quiet little financial expert" testified. Reilly led him on into the transactions of 1933. In January sales totaled $2,380 and purchases approximately $2,100.

Hauptmann's deficit with Steiner-Rouse, Frank recounted, was $1,165.93 at the end of February, 1933. No purchases were made in this account in March but eight deposits created a balance of $1,673.90.

On March 31, 1933, the expert said, the brokerage account was transferred from Hauptmann's name to that of his wife's maiden name.

Immediately after the account was transferred to Mrs. Hauptmann's name, the Hauptmann stock operation assumed a new character.

Frank recited the blocks of stock that were bought and sold rapidly throughout April, 1933.

Q. What was his balance, credit or debit at the end of April, 1933?

A. He had a credit balance of $382.21 and they were holding $9,927 worth of stock. He had delivered $2,500 cash to the account during the month.

Trading Active in May, 1933.

The trading was likewise active in May, 1933, the witness testified. A long list of 100 share purchases which cost Hauptmann from $500 to more than $4,000 each.

Reilly sought to bring from the witness that Hauptmann's trading in May, 1933, was largely with his holdings with Steiner-Rouse without additions of new cash.

Q. May 3 he delivered into the account $2,575 in cash, Frank said.

Just before recess Reilly turned to a line of questions, designed to bring out that Hauptmann began to make profits in his Steiner-Rouse account, which he left there for further transactions.

In the latter part of May, 1933, Frank testified, Hauptmann engaged in almost daily speculation making profits varying from $73 to $550 in a day's transactions.

Q. What was the condition of his accounts at the end of May, 1933?

A. At the end of May, 1933, he had a credit balance of $3,841.79 and at the beginning $281.33. He put in $2,800.

Q. So he made a $1,000 profit at the end of the month?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he dealt in $31,350 worth of stock?

A. Yes, sir.

Hauptmann, the expert added, bought $15,000 worth of stock and sold approximately $4,000 worth on June 5. He found it necessary to deposit $3,225 to protect his margin the next day.

In two days in June, Frank pointed out, Hauptmann's operations brought him $1,000 profit.

Debit in June.

There was a debit of $7,973.72 in the account, Frank estimated, at the end of June, in contrast to a balance of approximately $3,800 at the beginning.

During the month, he said, Hauptmann dealt in stocks valued at $50,531.

Hauptmann reduced his stock holdings approximately $6,000 at the end of June, the witness continued, but, at Reilly's often-repeated question, agreed that the cash resulting remained in the account for further operation.

Reilly, oblivious to the boredom of his audience and the jury, plunged ahead into the maze of Hauptmann's accounts for July, 1933. He brought out the carpenter's operations during the month included the purchase of more than $18,000 worth of stocks.

The July operations, however, required additional cash totaling $4,500, Frank pointed out. The early dealing in August, 1933, brought only small profits not greater than $200, Reilly drew from the witness.

Reilly sought to elicit testimony that at the start of August Hauptmann started to unload the stock holdings he had accumulated. The government expert, however, quickly corrected himself, said that on the contrary Hauptmann added to his string of stocks during the month, rather than decreasing it.

"At the end of August he had a debit balance of $11,791.50," the witness read from the statement.

Stock Holdings Increased.

Hauptmann's debits were growing as each month progressed and his holdings of stocks became more lengthy.

In a summary of the dealings in the latter part of August through 1934, Reilly said Hauptmann, using margin accounts, held $30,000 to $90,000 worth of stocks each month.

Frank agreed.

Q. Nothing unusual for a man to go into Wall Street with $10,000 and deal on margin?

A. No, sir.

"I think that's all," said Reilly, and Wilentz reclaimed the witness for direct.

Frank said, "the trading is not unusual but where he got the $10,000 is the important part, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir," said Frank.

Losses Cited.

The witness said losses occurred in Hauptmann's dealing "subsequent to the period Mr. Reilly asked about."

Q. In what amount did the losses exceed the profits from April 2, 1932, and the date of Hauptmann's arrest in September, 1934?

A. $5,728.63.

Q. But what was the Hauptmann bank balance on April 2, 1932?

A. $281.33.

Q. In 1933 stock operations were much less than prior to the crash?

A. Yes.

Q. He bought a great many more shares after the ransom was paid than in 1929?

A. He did.

Q. Did he ever have a thousand shares in the account before April 2, 1932, the day the ransom was paid?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ever have 2,000 shares in his account before the ransom was paid?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ever buy $50,000 worth of stocks in one month prior to the ransom payment?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Yes, he did. Frank, New York telephone company executive, was called next by Wilentz to tell of the changing of the phone number of Dr. John F. Condon, ransom intermediary.

Frank is manager of the division office of the company in the Bronx through which the change was ordered.

Q. On April 12, 1932 was Dr. Condon's telephone number changed?

A. It was.

Q. After that, did he have a listed telephone number or a private number?

A. A private number.

Wilentz then brought out that between the day of the kidnapping, March 1, 1932, and April 12, 1932, 10 days after the ransom payment Condon's number was Sedgewick S-7154.

This was the same number found pencilled in Hauptmann's handwriting in a closet in Hauptmann's Bronx home.

Edward F. Morton, construction timekeeper at the Majestic apartments in New York, was called next to tell of the period of employment there of Hauptmann.

He identified Hauptmann as having been one of the employees in the early part of 1932.

Time Book Produced.

The time book of the construction job and Hauptmann's employment card were produced, and the card was accepted in evidence over defense objection.

ance of ransom money in circulation, calling Mrs. Cecilia Barr, cashier of the Sheridan theater, New York city.

Q. Do you know the defendant Hauptmann?

A. Yes, I have seen him before. He purchased a ticket the night of November 26, 1933.

Wilentz had the witness demonstrate with a bill how the folded $5 certificate was tossed into her ticket cage.

Q. Are you positive as to the man who gave you the bill?

A. Yes, that's him.

Reilly came over to the witness and started cross-questioning her.

Reilly then demanded if she had not expected a Hollywood contract because of her part in the Lindbergh case. The witness laughed into her hand as she answered "No." She was obviously not the "Hollywood type."

Someone hissed at Reilly's questions. Wilentz took the witness and brought out that she had turned the bill over to the police and had told her story the next day.

William M. Cody, young clerk of the Corn Exchange Bank, New York, next witness, told of discovering the $3 "red seal" ransom certificate among receipts deposited from the Sheridan theater.

Cody said he put the bill aside after determining its number was included on the Lindbergh ransom bill list.

Hit by Trolley Car, Woman Badly Injured

Mrs. Virgil J. Brown, well-known county employee, was seriously injured Monday night when she was struck by a trolley car on Peachtree road, near Peachtree creek.

Mrs. Brown, who has been connected with Judge Thomas H. Jeffries' office for 12 years, was admitted to the Crawford W. Long hospital. Physicians there said her condition could not fully be determined until today, but that she had received a deep cut and bruise on the head and lacerations on her knees. She was knocked unconscious. Early Tuesday physicians said she was resting "satisfactorily."

A companion of Mrs. Brown and herself were waiting for the street car to board it. The car hit Mrs.

107 MASSACRED
AT FRENCH POST

Nomad Tribesmen Slay Administrator of African Territory, 18 Police.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 21.—(AP)—One hundred and seven persons, including a French administrative official, were reported massacred today in French territory by Nomad tribesmen.

Those massacred were reported to include, beside the Frenchman, 18 native members of the Djibouti police force and 88 Somalilanders.

Reports received in Djibouti concerning the affair were extremely sketchy owing to difficult communications in the interior of Somaliland, near the Ethiopian border.

The name of the French administrator was given as Bernard.

Djibouti, French Somaliland, on the northern coast of Africa, is France's seaport terminal for the railroad leading to Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia.

Djibouti is a small, colorful city on the fringe of desert territory populated by French colonials, Somalis, and a sprinkling of international settlers.

It borders upon Italian Somaliland, focus of Italy's colonial expansion plans in northern Africa.

The recent Rome agreement between France and Italy provides certain concessions from France to Italy in northern Africa, including several thousand square miles of territory and an interest in the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway.

Somaliland and its neighboring territory, bordering upon Ethiopia, is the locale of recent violent clashes between Italian and Ethiopian forces resulting in protests from both countries to the League of Nations, with conflicting claims as to the responsibility for the outbreaks.

QUICK! STOP
THAT COLD
IN THE DRY OR FIRST STAGE!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. A cold is twice as easily stopped in the first as in the second or third stages. In fact, to let a cold run beyond the first stage is inviting trouble.

As your doctor will tell you, there is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is expressly a cold tablet and not a "cure-all." It is internal treatment which a cold requires. It does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels. Second, it checks the infection in the system. Third, it relieves the headache and fever. Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack. Anything less than that may be inviting trouble. Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the largest selling cold tablet in the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine.

When a cold threatens, do the sensible thing and go right to your drugist for a package of Bromo Quinine.

Take two of the tablets at four-hour intervals and you'll usually check the cold in 24 hours. That's the speed you want for comfort and for safety.

All drug stores sell Bromo Quinine and the few pennies' cost may save you dollars in doctor's bills.

Karpis Girl Caught

Winona Burdette, 22 (above), also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell, and Dolores Delaney, 21, were seized in Atlantic City, N. J., as police raided a hotel, seeking Alvin Karpis, suspected kidnaper. Karpis and a companion escaped. (Associated Press photo.)

traveling fast in the direction of Philadelphia. "Be on the lookout for car containing two men, one of them Alvin Karpis," the alarm said. "Left Doylestown, Pa., headed for Philadelphia at fast rate of speed. Use caution. These men are armed."

Federal agents, many of them recalled from Atlantic City after the abandoned car was found, pointed out that regardless of the route the fugitives took, they were at a disadvantage because they had no knowledge of the eastern Pennsylvania sector. These operatives pointed out that Karpis was in totally unfamiliar territory in this area, since all his previous known haunts have been reported in Oklahoma City and other mid-west points.

In southeastern Pennsylvania he and Campbell will find not only the lonely, hilly area in which their car was discovered, but a maze of highways and by-roads on which a stranger is readily lost. A cordon of officers, bristling with rifles and machine guns, was thrown about virtually every road in this part of the state while some state police combed the Haycock mountain area in the lessening belief the two had hurried to cover there in the darkness and fog.

"Shoot To Kill." In addition to the Bucks county police alarm, the head of the state police, Major Lynn Adams, sent a message over the police interstate printer warning all officers of the presence of the criminal in Pennsylvania. "Important," the message read, "Alvin Karpis has been traced into Pennsylvania. Probably in hiding somewhere in the state, search your towns for this man. He is desperate. Any squad attempting to apprehend him should be armed with rifles."

Along with this went instructions to "shoot to kill" if Karpis is sighted. Meantime, the two women Karpis and Campbell left behind them when they fled Atlantic City in their underground were brought to Philadelphia by federal agents.

One, known as Louise Graham, alias Dolores Delaney, police said, was wounded in the leg in the gun battle in the Shore City hotel. The other girl has identified herself to federal authorities as Winona Burdette, radio singer. Although they were known to have been brought into Philadelphia, federal operatives refused to reveal the place at which they are being held.

COLD WEATHER DUE HERE TODAY

blizzard swirled into southwestern Colorado, again blocking the narrow gauge lines of the Denver & Rio Grande Western.

Pennsylvania river banks were filling. In Wisconsin the Willcox river burst through St. Croix dam, wrecking a powerhouse, railway trestle and damaging a new highway bridge.

The zero front passed Chicago at midday, moving steadily eastward and south. Pennsylvania, in the sixties and soggy with rain, anticipated by nightfall a 50-degree drop. Temperatures 10 below zero were forecast for Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Many Deaths Reported. Deaths multiplied. Two negroes drowned in a Mississippi deluge. A week-end of traffic and other ice accidents accounted for 16 deaths in Indiana, a dozen or more in Ohio, 1 in Texas, 3 in Oklahoma. An automobile plunged into a creek near Madison, Ind., in the fog and three men drowned. Sleet, rain and snow were advance agents of the cold wave.

At Union, Neb., a Missouri Pacific passenger train, hours late because of the weather, plunged into the caboose of a freight just pulling off the main line. Only one person was injured. The engine crew set the brakes and jumped safely.

Storm warnings were posted along the Gulf from Texas to Florida. The mercury dropped to the freezing point on the Mexican border at Laredo, and dipped as low as 5 in the Texas panhandle, 11 at Maryville, Mo., and near zero at St. Louis.

For slush and mild temperatures stood their ground at Washington, D. C., where the cold turn was called for Monday night.

Expert Envisages Huge Cost For Social Security Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—An expert's estimate that the cost of old age pensions to the government would amount to $1,300,000,000 annually in 45 years was given a house committee today at the opening of hearings on the administration's social security program.

Edwin E. Witte, executive director of the president's committee which helped draft the security proposals, testified before the ways and means committee that the $1,300,000,000 must be matched by state contributions equally large under the president's plan.

Witte scoffed at the Townsend plan which calls for $200 payments monthly to all over 65.

He said the tax proposed to pay for the Townsend pensions would provide in a year only enough to pay the cost of the program, an estimated $24,000,000,000 or more, for only two or three months.

Assessing the president's proposal, now pending in congress, did not fit into the American economic system or any other, Witte said.

"Obviously we would not get enough money to finance the plan unless we started printing presses."

$50,000,000 First Year. Stubby and slightly bald, the former secretary of the Wisconsin industrial commission spent five hours before the committee explaining ramifications of old age pensions, unemployment insurance, child welfare, mothers' aid and health phases of the presidential plan.

He presented long and intricate tables worked out by actuaries to show the cost of old age pensions for the first year would be $50,000,000 for the federal government and at least that much by the states.

He figured that more states would have the plan in operation by the second year and $125,000,000 would be needed.

To do this, Witte said, it would be necessary to cut out the provisions for helping the persons now reaching middle age.

Witte said most of the states, even those already having old age pension laws, would have to make some legislative changes before their statutes would measure up to the requirements laid down in the bill before the committee.

Gives Data. He explained that some of the states have laws which permit counties to pay old age pensions, but do not make it mandatory. Others have age limits too high to make them eligible for federal aid.

The proposed law calls for the payment of pensions to persons over 70 up to 1940 and to those over 65 afterwards.

Twenty-eight states have some form of old age pension laws but Witte said several of them were not operative at all, and others only partially so.

Witte said 700,000 persons over 65, most of them as heads of families, were now on the federal relief rolls and that altogether there were between 800,000 and 900,000 such persons on one form or another of relief.

The witness said there were between 7,000,000 and 7,500,000 persons over 65 in the country and 11,500,000 over 60.

He added that in no state had the

MAIS GANGSTER POINTS TO SCENE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP)—

From a small bridge over ice-clogged, fog-bound Neshaminy creek, Martin Farrell, member of the Robert Mais "Tri-State" gang, today pointed out for authorities the spot where the kidnapers of William Weiss hurled the night-life character's body last fall.

A few minutes afterward, Harbor police, grappling in the creek from two rowboats, dragged up from the bottom a trouser leg of black cloth and half of a man's muddled white clothing. Authorities theorized, may have been part of the clothing Weiss wore when his abductors rid themselves of his body.

Farrell was led to the creek, just north of the city, immediately on his arrival with two other members of the gang in a heavily-guarded motor caravan which had brought them from New York.

The other two were Marie McKeever, alleged "girl friend" of Mais, and Edwin (Bones) Gale. Riding in separate cars, shackled to watchful detectives and under continuous threat from a cordon of police guns, they reached Philadelphia after a four-hour trip from New York. The McKeever woman and Gale were taken immediately to the federal building.

AGENTS GRILLING MAIS FOR WEISS DEATH CLUES

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Centering their questions on Robert Mais, condemned murderer and ringleader of the notorious Tri-State gang, federal agents pushed ahead tonight with their inquiry into the kidnaping and probable slaying of William Weiss, of Philadelphia, and other crimes.

It was the fourth day Mais had faced the persistent federal men, sequestered in the midtown department of justice offices, which resemble an armed camp. Guards patrol the corridors and all entrances are blocked.

Two of his gang followers—Edwin Gale and Martin Farrell—and Marie McKeever were removed to Philadelphia, scene of the Weiss kidnaping, earlier in the day. They went with 30 detectives and federal agents, armed with machine guns and tear gas.

Mais, said Frank X. Fay, head of the department of justice office here, will be held for return to Virginia, where he and Walter Legenza are under death sentences. Legenza is a prisoner in a hospital, recovering from two broken legs.

Mais, Fay said, has been suffering recently from an abdominal wound incurred in a gun battle with officers in Baltimore, and has lost considerable weight, about 20 pounds, he estimated.

"Also," Fay said, "he has dyed his blond hair black and has grown a mustache, which he has dyed black. He doesn't look like the same man we had pictures of."

Fay revealed that prior to making arrests in the case he and another federal man closely observed Legenza in the Presbyterian hospital and determined definitely he was the wanted gangster.

"We put on white coats," he said, "and went through."

"After that it was simple." Late today, Fay said, he had no comment to make at present on the Weiss case, but hoped a definite announcement could be made shortly.

To remain on the scene definitely awaiting congressional action. He was in conference today with Dr. Strong and other officials of the department discussing the general scope of operations necessary to deal with the situation.

DEPUTIES JAIL THREE IN LIQUOR RAIDS HERE

Deputies Gus Howard and Joe Schilling found more than a case of whisky at Buddy's Buffet on Edgewood avenue and charged a man who gave the name of James M. Later Gus Howard chased a man who jumped from an automobile containing a case and a half of liquor and caught T. B. Curley, of Emory Place, according to Tower records.

All three made bonds of $300 each.

and Robert F. Wilson, of New Rochelle, N. Y., graduate in electrical engineering last year.

Reversing the more common procedure of flying a land plane over long stretches of water, they put their "air ship" over and around most of the large land spots on the globe "without accident and without particular incident."

"We're just a couple of amateurs flying for fun, experience and first-hand information," deprecated Dr. Light, "and saved from trouble by first rate equipment. We were never in difficulty, aloft or afloat. We particularly commend the two-way radio, which functioned perfectly."

A skeleton log of the flight reads like an armchair adventurer's dream. Starting from New Haven, Conn., last August 20, their six-place monoplane hopped to Labrador, Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe Islands, the Orkneys, Edinburgh, London, Holland, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, over the Alps to Lake Maggiore, Rome, Athens, Cyprus, Bagdad, the Persian Gulf, India, Burma, the Malay States, Bali, Borneo, thence to Manila.

At Manila, their plane was swung aboard the liner Empress of Canada to Vancouver. After an overhaul, it soared again, down the Pacific coast to Acapulco, Mexico, across to Cuba and up to Miami.

During five weeks over Europe, the doctor visited principal European clinics.

"Closest we came to excitement," he said, "was when we slept aboard in a Caribbean port. Bob in the cabin and I in a hammock slung outside. We were thoroughly rocked to sleep."

They planned to take off tomorrow on the final hop back to New Haven.

South To Take Leading Role In Security Program—Perkins

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP) Secretary of Labor Perkins today said she was confident that southern legislatures meeting this year will make the south "a leader" in putting into effect the president's economic security program.

In an address to the Tennessee general assembly, following a talk to the southern regional labor conference meeting here, Miss Perkins urged the lawmakers to enact at this session laws for carrying out provisions of the program.

"I am confident," she declared, "that the Tennessee will join with the legislatures of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas, which are meeting this year, in making the south a leader in putting into effect the program which is designed to provide economic security on a sure, steady and sound, if limited, basis for American citizens and their families."

At the conference Miss Perkins said that "the old idea of the moral approach to personal and social problems has been preserved in the south and it was chiefly devoted to discussion and adoption of a southern labor legislative slate, expected to include proposals for measures against the use of national guard troops during strikes and for ratification of the child labor amendment."

Delegates to the conference were estimated at 400 and represented 12 southern states. Miss Perkins said she hoped that out of the meeting might be developed desirable legislation on hours of labor, minimum wages, child labor, industrial home work, safety and sanitation, workmen's compensation, social security, employment service and a development of state departments of labor.

The recommendations to the legislature adoption of resolutions authorizing co-operation with the federal government in public service employment and asked expansion of workmen's compensation laws and passage of measures banning night work for women, setting maximum work hours at 48 a week and creating a minimum wage for women's wages.

In outlining federal unemployment insurance proposals, Miss Perkins said details of insurance operation would be left up to the states, the national government providing uniform a general structure for all states "against the possibility of industry in one state having an unfair advantage over that of another."

Each state would decide, she said, whether it's insurance funds would come from contributions from employers and employees and whether the state would aid.

The secretary of labor, who came here yesterday, returned to Washington this afternoon. Tonight's session was the last of the conference. Protection.. FOR PROTECTION

BEYOND all question of doubt, the greatest economic bulwark which men possess is Life Insurance. Millions of men have lived and died with the glorious consolation that those they loved were protected as they could never have protected them otherwise—by Life Insurance.

To every man who has those who are dependent on him, I would say two things:

1. You have no more vital obligation in life than to carry Life Insurance which will protect your loved ones in the event of your untimely death. You are their breadwinner. Do not gamble their future against your ability to live. Life continues just one second at a time.

2. Make your Life Insurance protection complete by means of a simple Life Insurance Trust Agreement. Leave the principal sum in trust with your bank. Let experienced Trust Officers invest it and provide a regular income for your family. Life Insurance ceases to be the real protection you desire when it has "got-atable" principal. There is too much temptation to use that principal and inexperienced people do not realize that doing this cuts down regular income.

These two suggestions I make to serious-minded men. Our Trust Officers will welcome the opportunity to meet such men and will gladly explain how a Life Insurance Trust can be arranged and the benefits it will provide.

White House Conference
Draws Tentative Bill on Holding Companies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(UP)—President Roosevelt moved tonight to expedite preparation of legislation which will carry out his pledge to congress to remove the "evils" of public utility holding companies.

He summoned into conference at the White House Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Chairman Frank McNinch and other power experts and it is understood, discussed a four-point program to arrive at the administrator's goal.

The points involved were said to be:

1. A heavy tax on holding companies.
2. Federal control of the sale of operating companies to holding companies.

3. Government supervision of contracts negotiated between holding and operating units.

4. Federal regulation of loans by holding companies to their subsidiaries.

The program was reviewed for more than an hour. On departing Secretary Morgenthau said:

"He is sending us home to do some more homework."

This was interpreted as indication that the proposed legislation still is in a tentative state, a view corroborated later by McNinch. In reply to inquiries concerning the draft of the new legislation, McNinch said:

"We have not gone that far."

Nevertheless the interstate commerce committees of both houses are known to be at work on the new measure.

The subjects already under discussion substantiate earlier reports that the administration will attempt to force the holding companies to clean house through federal regulation of their relations with subsidiaries rather than through a new attack on the sale of holding company securities.

High administration officials make no secret of the fact that they consider the holding companies as serving no real purpose in the nation's industrial and financial structure.

Charles E. Mitchell Begins Comeback

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City bank, has tossed his hat into the Wall Street ring, starting life over again with his own firm, C. E. Mitchell & Co., with a modest suite of offices on the sixth floor of 41 Broad street, which stands opposite the site of the old curb market.

Almost 25 years ago, also in a period of depression, the name of C. E. Mitchell & Co. was painted on the door of an office in the financial district. From that jumping-off spot, Charles E. Mitchell went far, only to fall in the ruins of the 1929 collapse. He will specialize in the reorganization of corporations.

New Producer Clicks With Show at Atlanta

The management of the Atlanta theater has the happy faculty of obtaining producers who always surpass their predecessors. The bill this week is under the direction of Chuck Gregory, direct from the "Star and Garter" night club in Chicago, and he gives Atlantans a real production, one that borders on real musical comedy. The scenic effects and costumes are exceptional.

The chorus has been enlarged, Jacques, called the best "talking woman" in burlesque turns out to be a singer of no mean ability as well, an added dance team of Bordine and Carroll is unique, the Four Harmonizers more than pleasing, and Vic Hallen is there with his ready wit. The strip numbers stop the show as usual with Nora Ford, Snookie Woods, and Little Tamara doing their best.

ARKANSAS SENTENCES INSTRUCTOR OF FERA

6-Month Term Meted on Anarchy Charge Arising From Tenant Riot.

MARKED TREE, Ark., Jan. 21.—(UP)—Ward Rodgers, 24, instructor for the federal emergency relief administration, was found guilty of anarchy today and was held under $2,000 bond on other serious charges as a result of an inflammatory speech to Arkansas share-croppers.

Rodgers was sentenced to six months in jail and ordered to pay a $500 fine on the anarchy charge, a misdemeanor, by Justice P. C. McCrory.

C. E. Carpenter, Marked Tree, defense lawyer, said "We offered no defense at today's trial because I knew we didn't have a chance. However, I am appealing the case to circuit court, where it will come up during the March term."

Mrs. Mary Conner Myer, member of the agricultural administration's legal staff, watched the proceedings but took no part. She was sent here by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to investigate charges that landlords were evicting share-croppers in violation of the cotton acreage agreements.

According to Prosecutor Fred H. Stafford, who heard Rodgers' speech, the youth offered to lead a mob against plantation owners who evicted share-croppers. Rodgers was allegedly working for the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, which is helping to determine share-croppers' rights under the acreage reduction program.

Socialists have rallied to Rodgers' defense. Lucien Koch, 27-year-old president of Commonwealth College, of Mena, Ark., a co-operative institution, protested Rodgers' arrest in a speech at Tyson. Norman Thomas, head of the socialist party, announced in New York that a defense fund would be raised.

Rodgers was allegedly working for the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, which is helping to determine share-croppers' rights under the acreage reduction program.

Socialists have rallied to Rodgers' defense. Lucien Koch, 27-year-old president of Commonwealth College, of Mena, Ark., a co-operative institution, protested Rodgers' arrest in a speech at Tyson. Norman Thomas, head of the socialist party, announced in New York that a defense fund would be raised.

C. E. Carpenter, Marked Tree, defense lawyer, said "We offered no defense at today's trial because I knew we didn't have a chance. However, I am appealing the case to circuit court, where it will come up during the March term."

Mrs. Mary Conner Myer, member of the agricultural administration's legal staff, watched the proceedings but took no part. She was sent here by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to investigate charges that landlords were evicting share-croppers in violation of the cotton acreage agreements.

According to Prosecutor Fred H. Stafford, who heard Rodgers' speech, the youth offered to lead a mob against plantation owners who evicted share-croppers. Still Coughing?

If you have tried various remedies for that cough without getting relief, you probably need Creomulsion, but before buying it, go to a reliable druggist in your neighborhood and ask him all about Creomulsion. He knows what's in it. Creomulsion is carefully prepared for those who are willing to pay a trifle more for the best. The best is the cheapest in the long run. Ask your druggist what he thinks of Creomulsion for Coughs and Chest Colds.—(adv.)

TRUST COMPANY WINS GOODRUM ESTATE SUIT

Supreme Court Holds Institution Had Unlimited Power Making Investments.

Decision for the Trust Company of Georgia in suits against the institution as administrator of the estate of the late James J. Goodrum Jr. was handed down Monday by the supreme court of Georgia, affirming the ruling of Judge Virlyn Moore in Fulton superior court.

In announcing its decision the supreme court pointed out that the testator had given the administrator of his estate, the Trust Company of Georgia, unlimited discretionary power in making investments.

One of the heirs of the Goodrum estate had demanded that the trust company sell all common stocks left by Mr. Goodrum and convert the proceeds into state and county bonds. The company had already converted half the common stock holdings into state and county bonds and had thereupon obtained a desired diversification of investment and at the same time had increased the interest yield.

Heirs party to the suit included Mrs. Frankie McCrory Armistead, W. Malcolm McCrory, Mrs. Mildred Heyward, J. Goodrum Norris and Alonso M. Norris.

According to records of the estate and its administration, which was worth more than $2,000,000 at the time of Mr. Goodrum's death, reduced to $1,913,000 after the payment of debts and taxes, it has been increased more than 25 per cent by the investments made by the Trust Company of Georgia, after paying annual interest and dividends that have totaled, during the company's administration, $560,000.

It is claimed that if only state and county bonds, as sought by the plaintiffs, had been on hand this income would have been only $390,000. Thus the beneficiaries under the will have been given an additional $170,000 through the trust company's action.

The supreme court in its ruling on the case said:

"The language included in the will granted the trust company full and complete power and authority to make investments according to its best judgment, without obtaining any order of court authorizing it so to act, and authorized the company to exercise its best judgment in making investments in property of any kind, and to retain investments made by the testator during his lifetime, without obtaining any order of court so to do, and without regard to whether the investments made or to be made fell within the class especially approved by state laws touching investments by trustees and guardians."

Two Men Drown

In Pool of Oil

EL DORADO, Ark., Jan. 21.—Two men, Carl E. Fowler, 30, of El Dorado, and Ardrey F. Henley, 25, of Norphlet, were drowned today in warm crude oil, at the MacMillan Petroleum Corporation's refinery at Norphlet.

Officials of the company said Fowler, a gauger, was overcome by fumes and fell into the tank of heavy fluid. Henley, at work at the distilling plant near by, rushed to the rescue of his fellow employee. Lowering himself through the 16-inch opening in the tank he, too, was overcome by the fumes before he could bring Fowler to the surface.

DON'T NEGLECT MINOR THROAT IRRITATION

IT may become serious. Rub on soothing, warming Musterole. Relief generally follows quickly. Musterole gets such marvelous results because it's NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant"—warming, stimulating and penetrating—quick and helpful in drawing out pain and congestion.

Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by Good House-keeping Bureau, No. 4867.

Sleep for Baby Rest for Mother

When Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are used. All mothers should know that when little ones are sleepless, fretful and cross because of pimples, rashes, irritations and chafings of infancy and childhood, Cuticura will quickly soothe and heal. Bathe the affected parts with Cuticura Soap and hot water, dry, and gently apply Cuticura Ointment.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed.

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

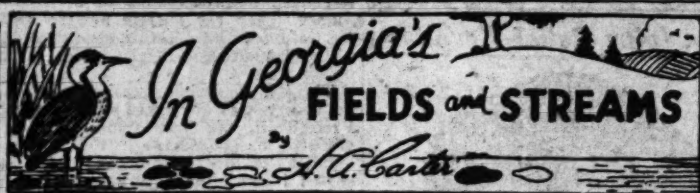

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—(adv.)

KEFENOKEE BASS.

You fishermen who have an itch to grasp again the butt of a casting rod with better results than mere exercise had better trek down to Okefenokee swamp and get after those big bass. On this past trip we made no provision whatever for meat. We planned provisions for four days, but in order to avoid the necessity of taking ice in with us, we relied purely on Caryle Carr's ability as a fisherman to supply the table. He came through nobly. You might say that we were taking an awful chance of going without meat, but I knew better.

There was never a meal during the entire time that we could not have had fish. Black bass, too. As a matter of fact, we did have it until it almost got on our nerves, but we stood it bravely for the sake of traveling light.

The place to fish is in the alligator all we needed or wanted, Carr gave the guides and Uncle Billy Spalding about 40 pounds of bass and jack. Jack, by the way, is the same as pickerel. It has a delicious flavor. Harry Chesser is a fine guide, and so is Gad Roddenberry. Gad has some sons who are pretty good, too. They charge $5 a day for their services, which are excellent. You had better write to John Hopkins, at Waycross, if you plan to go down and let him tell you how to proceed. The bass are there. You can get them, and do it with a plug.

Do you know how to figure the weight of a fish without the formality of weighing it? Take the girth at the widest part and the length to the fork of the tail. Multiply the girth by itself, multiply this figure by the length (all measurements in inches) and then divide the product by 900.

That goes for bass. Fish on the build of jack require a factor of 800 to divide by. It is surprisingly close.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, making it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—(adv.)

Even though the weather today is chill, passengers taken up by Wincepaw will enjoy perfect comfort in the heated cabin of the craft, it was announced.

The Record of Your Eye Condition Today

Eyes that see easily and function perfectly are a priceless possession which many do not fully appreciate. Else they would be more considerate of them from year to year.

The record of your eye condition today, when laid beside that of your previous record, will tell exactly how efficiently your eyes are serving you.

Have the eyes examined at least once a year. It doesn't follow that you must have glasses, or that your glasses need changing each time, but a check up is nevertheless important.

..THAT HYDRAULIC BRAKES..
SAFETY-STEEL BODIES..
FLOATING POWER..
REDISTRIBUTION OF WEIGHT..

Were first introduced by Chrysler Motors Engineers!

Left: IN 1924, Chrysler Motors engineers introduced Hydraulic Brakes on their cars. Today, these brakes are recognized as the safest kind.

HAVE YOU BEEN READING the automobile advertisements this year? Have you seen the new cars?

If you have, you must have noticed the emphasis that is being placed on Hydraulic Brakes... Steel Bodies... and the new Redistribution of Weight.

To many people, these may be new features. It is true that many cars are adding one or another of them for the first time.

But talk to the owner of any Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge or Plymouth car.

He's had Hydraulic Brakes for years. He wouldn't drive a car that didn't have them.

He has the protection of an All-Steel Body for himself and his family.

And if he is an "Airflow" owner, he has been enjoying Redistribution of Weight...

riding between the axles...for twelve months.

Can it be just a coincidence that these vital motor car features of 1935 were all presented first by Chrysler Motors?

Isn't it rather an obvious evidence of leadership in sound engineering... the ability to lead rather than to follow?

This is a vitally important thought to any man who plans to buy a new car—for this reason: In Chrysler Motors cars all these features have been perfected.

Their Hydraulic Brakes are the result of 10 years' research and development. Their Bodies are 100% All-Steel construction.

And isn't it logical that Redistribution of Weight should have been worked out best by the same men who pioneered and developed this principle... now a basic feature in every Chrysler Motors car?

A little investigation will show you that only a Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge or Plymouth has all these vital features... plus patented Floating Power engine mountings that end motor vibration.

And this year, amazing mechanical features make these four cars the most economical in Chrysler Motors history.

We urge you to see these new cars today. Compare them with any others for Comfort, Economy and Advanced Engineering.

Above: Center of balance in a conventional car is well in the rear. Below: Note how the center of balance has been advanced in Chrysler Motors cars.

3 per cent retail sales tax which also carries a one-tenth of 1 per cent sales tax on manufacturers and bills to declare gasoline a public utility and to have its prices fixed by the public service commission and also to set up a sterilization law in Georgia.

University Fund Explained.

As to the appropriations to the university system, which the budget fixes at $1,300,000 for each year, Talmadge said: "This is included on the theory that the university system is a public utility and the property of the state and that the property under their control is the property of the state. Unless this status is clearly defined at this session of the general assembly, Section 25 (which is the section devoted to appropriations to the system) should be stricken in its entirety from the budget bill."

Governor Talmadge said that "with continued improved business conditions" the state may expect a general fund income of between $9,225,000 and $9,500,000 for each of 1936 and 1937. He said this estimate is based on the assumption that no changes will be made in the present revenue laws and on a 4-mill state property tax rate. He said in 1933 and 1934 the state government operated on general fund appropriations of about $8,000,000 a year.

"To do this it has been necessary to enforce very drastic economy but I think all services of essential importance have been maintained."

$1,300,000 Deficit Wiped Out.

He said that in the two years, with the property tax reduced 20 per cent, effecting a reduction in general fund income of about $1,000,000, the state had wiped out a general fund deficit of over $1,300,000.

The current deficit of the state at the end of 1932 was $7,523,835.82; in 1933 $5,383,118.88 and in 1934 $4,024,556.15. The two-million-dollar deficit of highway funds which Governor Talmadge proposes would take care of a part of the 1934 debt.

The appropriations bill includes the following amounts for the various state departments:

Education Department: $4,000,000 for each of 1936 and 1937. This is a reduction of $564,000 as compared to the appropriation for 1934. Compulsory general, for operating costs: $198,000 for each of the years 1936 and 1937. This is an increase of $88,000 as compared to the 1934 figure of $110,000.

Banking Department: Ninety-seven per cent of the allocations fixed by law, the same as 1934. Audits: $100,000 for each of the two years, which is an increase of $35,000 over the 1934 figure of $65,000.

Agriculture Department: $324,000 for 1936, and $280,000 for 1937. For 1936, $44,000 of the agriculture fund is to be made available immediately.

Forestry and Geology: $50,000 for each of the years 1936-37, which is the same as the 1934 appropriation. Entomology: $45,000 for each of the years 1936-37, a decrease of $5,000.

Game and Fish: Ninety-seven per cent of the allocations fixed by law, the same as 1934. Audits: $100,000 for each of the two years, which is an increase of $35,000 over the 1934 figure of $65,000.

State Treasurer: $27,500 for each of the two years for operating costs of the department, fixing the salary of the state treasurer at $6,000 annually.

For Interest on Public Debts—Including consolidated general fund debt, the university system $200,000. This was $205,000 in 1934.

For Operating Cost of Supreme Court—$73,000. This is the same as in 1934.

Court of Appeals—$74,000, same as in 1934.

Salaries and fees of judges and solicitors-general of superior courts, $206,000, same as in 1934.

Compensation and mileage of members of general assembly, $192,000, same as in 1934.

Funds for sinking fund on public debt, redemption of W. & A. railroad rental discounts and grants to counties for road construction are allocated by law.

The bill designates that a maximum of $35,000 annually be used for operating the veterans' service office out of allocated funds.

The governor recommended $1,648,000 in 1936 and $1,500,000 in 1937 for eleemosynary institutions. The bill provides that the $148,000 shall be made available immediately to pay debts at the Milledgeville State Hospital. Total in 1934 was $1,598,000.

Talmadge's Budget Message.

Governor Talmadge's budget message follows in full:

To the General Assembly of Georgia:

The budget bill which I herewith submit to you proposes appropriations for the operation of the state government for the calendar years 1936 and 1937. The total of proposed general fund items is $9,375,000 for 1936 and $9,304,000 for 1937.

With continued improved business conditions we may reasonably expect a general fund income of between nine and one-quarter and nine and one-half million dollars for each of these years. This estimate is based on the assumption of no changes in the present revenue laws and on a four-mill property tax rate.

In 1933 and 1934 we have operated the state government on general fund appropriations of about eight million dollars a year. To do this it has been necessary to enforce very drastic economy, but I think all services of essential importance have been maintained.

In that period not only has the property tax for state purposes been reduced 20 per cent, effecting a reduction in general fund income of about one million dollars, but we have wiped out a general fund deficit of over thirteen hundred thousand dollars. This deficit was not of our making, but was brought over from prior years and has been renewed and extended from year to year through bank loans.

I have given careful consideration to every item in this bill. Every department and institution of the state government has had an opportunity to present its claims and needs, and the present conditions of each of them is thoroughly familiar to me through performance of my duties as budget director and as ex-officio member of the boards of control of eleemosynary institutions and of the state government.

A series of bills affecting the Fulton county school teachers and the system were presented to the house Monday by the Fulton delegation in the house of representatives.

One of the measures permits the county board of education to borrow up to the amount of its revenues for the current year.

Senator Homer Edenfield, of Kingsland, said Monday that he was delaying introduction of his bill to legalize horse racing in Georgia pending receipt of information he is seeking from the Florida racing commission.

Governor Talmadge Monday announced the reappointment of his military staff. Colonel Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, again was named chief of the staff.

Senator G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, Monday introduced a state anti-narcotic bill. The bill contains all the provisions of the federal law except those governing interstate traffic. Dr. P. A. Williams, federal narcotic officer, said that the bill was that desired by the federal government and that it would obtain aid of state and local authorities in the war on dope.

Representatives Williams, of Coffee and Barrett, of Richmond, Monday introduced a bill requiring utilities to return their properties for taxation at 50 per cent of the value they place on these properties for rate-making purposes.

MRS. MORRIS TO TALK ON BIOGRAPHIES TODAY

Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris will continue her talks on recent outstanding biographies Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Rich's tea room.

She will speak on Charles the First and Oliver Cromwell, each of whom has recently been the subject of several notable new books, especially those by Hilaire Belloc and John Buchan.

Charles the First, ill-fated grandson of Mary, Queen of Scots, was the only English monarch who ever met with the hands of his own people. Oliver Cromwell was the only commoner who ever sat as supreme ruler over that country. The tragic conflict between these two men and the essential permanent conflict between the patrician and puritan will be the theme of Mrs. Morris' lecture.

The Atlanta public and all visitors to the city are cordially invited to attend.

REGENTS' MEASURE GIVEN APPROVAL

cause of my love for the institution that I am putting this bill before the general assembly. I do not want to saddle a debt upon future generations which they will not be able to pay."

The governor cited a letter he had received from Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, a distant relative of his who lives in Athens, to show what he termed was lack of need for additional buildings at the university.

"The report from this lady shows that a number of the dormitories now at the university are only half filled and that there is no need for buildings there," he declared.

The governor pledged to the committee that the buildings would be placed where they are needed.

"Georgia is in grand financial shape but it is in that shape only because the constitution prevents such things as the regents are now trying to do," he declared in answering question of Representative Coleman, of Lowndes county, who cited to him that the South Georgia Women's College at that city had been forced to turn away prospective students because they had no room for them.

"I understand that the same situation exists at the North Georgia College at Dahlonega," the governor went on. "If those buildings are needed, they seem to be, they will be built. We erected a badly needed new building at Milledgeville in the last two years and we didn't have to go to the public works administration in Washington or anywhere else and borrow the money. We got it out of our regular funds."

The governor said he agreed to the two amendments which he considered possible for each institution to keep its own various fees and which sets apart from the other properties and funds that is given to the units of the university system.

"I thought that everyone knew that the legislature could not set aside the will of someone who left something to our schools and colleges but if they think a clause ought to be in the bill I will agree to it readily."

Opposes Higher Fees.

The governor said that he not only wanted to keep the university system out of debt but added that he felt that the incurring of the debt to the PWA would result in higher matriculation and other fees for the institutions involved.

"The people of Georgia cannot afford to pay higher fees for their children to enter the colleges than they are now paying," he asserted. "Why a couple of years ago when I was pinching my own funds to send my boy to college I found that the fees were five times what they were when I went to school. I also found that he could go to Emory or to Mercer University cheaper than he could go to the university and neither of these schools got an appropriation from the state."

In concluding his talk to the committee, the governor said that he felt that "it can finish my term of office and get this bill through I think it will be the greatest service I have performed for the state of Georgia."

In discussing the contracting of the debt the governor said that he had no idea of trying to halt the PWA loan until a recent meeting of the regents when the board sought to adopt a resolution to contract a debt of $300,000 for a law library, a move which was adopted.

"If the regents want to borrow $2,000,000 from the PWA and there is nothing to stop them it won't be but three or four years before they will want to borrow more," he declared.

"The $300,000 they wanted to pledge for the library which the university gets the use of anyhow was the straw which broke the camel's back with me."

Representative Roy V. Harris, of Richmond county, the house rules committee vice president, announced Monday night that he and his colleagues would amend their pending bill for a tax on chain stores in order that the income from it to a special building fund for the board of regents and the board of control.

This tax will yield an income of $300,000 annually and if it is divided between the two bodies it will supply both with an ample building fund, Harris said.

Those sponsoring the bill with Harris are Representatives Wilmer D. Lanier and Billy Barrett.

Talmadge, Smith Shake Hands.

The governor and Chairman Smith greeted each other in friendly fashion, shaking hands as the chief executive walked to the witness stand and in the course of his remarks indicated that he was not "falling out" with either the chairman, Chancellor Welton, nor Major Clark Howell Jr., and Judge E. S. Ault, of Cedar town, board members who were in opposition to the bill.

In pleading for defeat of the measure, Chairman Smith cited the fact that nothing new had been built out of regular appropriations at the university in more than 30 years and that there is a drastic need for new buildings and additional equipment at many of the institutions which would share in the proceeds of the PWA contract.

The chairman of the regents pointed out to the committee that the loan and grant has been pending before the board since the tenure of Hughes Spaulding, of Atlanta, as chairman.

"When we first sought to get this fund we applied for $3,900,000 and we have now cut it to something like $2,600,000 and are figuring on reducing it some more," Mr. Smith said.

"We want only what is necessary."

The board chairman said that the regents had borrowed from the Joe Brown endowment fund to build the Joe Brown dormitory and that they were obtaining enough in rentals to pay for the building and pay interest on the amount borrowed.

"PWA Loan Nothing New."

"The PWA loan is nothing new for the regents," the chairman declared. "We are simply following a plan which we have already tried and found successful."

Mr. Smith said that he felt that the obtaining of the funds and the accomplishment of the needed improvements and additions would greatly decrease the cost of the young men and young women attending school.

"The governor's opinion of the opinion that it will increase the various fees paid by the students, but the contrary is true," he asserted. "What it will do is increase the total fees but it will decrease the fees paid by individual students."

The chairman said that he felt it would be a "calamity" if the fund is not obtained.

Quizzed on Coca-Cola Move.

Mr. Smith submitted to questioning by members of the committee and when Chairman Edwards asked him if the Coca-Cola Company, which his law firm represents, had not left Georgia to keep from paying income taxes, the question was attacked by Representative Arnall, who accused the chairman of treating the witness unfairly.

Mr. Smith said he did not know what effect the moves of the Coca-Cola Company had on state income.

Chancellor Welton spoke only briefly but he declared that he felt that the improvements and additions to the institutions were sorely needed.

"At Dahlonega the girls are quartered in a hotel which was built more than a hundred years ago and is not a fit place in which to house them," he asserted. "Likewise at the Abraham Baldwin College at Tifton the boys are being forced to sleep in bunks two and three when high school and agricultural college at Athens, many of them are sleeping in barns."

System Costs Cut.

The chancellor said that the regents had cut expenses year after year to such a point that the university system is now costing only 60 per cent of what it did when each school was operated by its own board of trustees. He cited the great increases in enrollments as a sign of the need for additional buildings and facilities.

Chairman Edwards attacked the agreement between the regents and Robert E. Company, Atlanta engineers, charging that the fees being paid the company are too high. He also charged that the regents were making unnecessary expenditures.

No member of the committee spoke on the measure with the exception of the chairman, but Representative Arnall said he would speak against the bill when it came up for passage in the house.

"I still believe we can defeat the bill," the speaker proclaimed at the conclusion of the hearing.

Letting Matter Rest.

Mr. Smith said that he would leave the matter in the hands of the general assembly.

"I have said all that I can say," the board chairman declared.

The possibility that the senate committee on the University of Georgia, which already has approved the regents' bill, may take it up again was seen Monday when Senator Lamar Rucker, of Athens, chairman of the group, called it to meet today.

Rucker, who was absent on account of illness when the committee met last week and approved the measure, said he felt that the full committee should study the bill.

Chairman Lamar Rucker, of the senate university committee, will call a meeting of his group in the senate chamber at 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider the disputed university measure, saying there would be a hearing for "anybody" at the session.

A lively battle was expected. Rucker was not in attendance last week when Vice Chairman McWhorter presided at a meeting of the committee which approved the bill without a hearing.

COMMITTEE FROM MACON TO CALL ON GOVERNOR

MACON, Ga., Jan. 21.—(P)—Rushing to the governor early tomorrow, a committee named today by Macon alumni of seven colleges will carry a mass of evidence "actively opposing passage" of the Talmadge-sponsored bill as "destructive of the university system."

Chairman of the delegation will be Harry Strosier, prominent Macon attorney and president of the National Alumni Association of Emory University, who said today "as a citizen of Georgia I cannot stand by and watch this calamity beyond words happen to the youth of the state."

Speakers had condemned the bill as putting the university system in politics, setting up one-man rule of the educational system, paralyzing future university progress, refusing to cooperate in national recovery efforts, killing all future donations and endangering the university standing in the American Association of Universities.

"Everybody knows Georgia is at the bottom of the nation in education and we have never been able to do anything about it because we have always been so infernally poor," Mr. Strosier declared at the meeting.

Now that the federal government wants to give us $800,000 (PWA grant) and lend us $2,000,000 (PWA loan) on terms that we can meet without adding a dollar to the state debt, it would be a calamity beyond words to pass the bill which would refuse it."

The resolution empowered General Walter A. Harris, Macon attorney and active Georgia alumnus, to appoint a committee to confer with Governor Talmadge tomorrow. He named Mr. Strosier, Wallace Miller, attorney and member of the board of managers of the Georgia Alumni Society;

Linton Solomon, Georgia Tech alumnus, and declared he will go himself.

UNIVERSITY HEADS DENY BUILDINGS "HALF-FILLED"

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 21.—(UP)—University of Georgia registration officials tonight challenged a report that some dormitories at the university "are only half filled," cited by Governor Talmadge to show the university needed no new buildings in a legislative committee hearing in Atlanta today.

A local newspaper check showed there were two dormitory vacancies at the university tonight. They were two rooms in Candler dormitory vacated by boys who had just left for home. Lucy Cobb dormitory, Sue Hall and Milledge hall were reported full; Brown dormitory was full with a long waiting list and Co-ordinate College was "filled to normal capacity."

COFFIN VOICES PLEA FOR DEVELOPMENT AID

The Georgia legislature Monday was called upon by Howard E. Coffin, Sea Island Beach capitalist, to appropriate funds to aid the southeastern development board, whose directorate he heads, to advertise the state's resources and products, year and year.

Speaking at a joint meeting of the house and senate at the invitation of the assembly, Mr. Coffin asked for support of a measure sponsored by Representative Hadley Brown, of Glynn county, which would set up a fund of $125,000 to advertise Georgia products.

Later, Mr. Coffin discussed the program with Governor Talmadge, Speaker of the House E. D. Rivers, and Senate President Charles D. Redwine at a luncheon at the Ansley hotel.

The southeastern development board will serve briefly as a planing group, a stimulating body and a co-ordinating agency," Mr. Coffin told the legislature. "We will follow the same plan which has been in successful operation in New England for more than 10 years."

"If we can take a step in the right direction that will benefit the Georgia farmers, and I understand that 75 per cent of the population of the state are either farmers or are dependent on the farm for their livelihood—by suggesting a crop rotation program—by discovering new uses and new markets for cotton and by stimulating better co-operative marketing systems—by improving the quality of our farm and dairy products—I feel that we will have made a worth-while contribution to our commonwealth."

"With thousands of acres timbered with slash pine, heretofore thought worthless but found to be a gold mine through the laboratory experiences of Dr. Charles H. Herty, of Savannah, in developing from the pine, newsprint, rayon and other cellulose products, we have discovered new industrial possibilities of tremendous import. Georgia and the southeast, through organized co-operative effort, could do a splendid thing in developing the newspaper and other latent and unknown industrial resources."

wedding Friday morning, Boettiger, ex-newspaperman, took immediate charge of the interview.

"I want to say this," he said, "we hope that by 11:45 we will be left alone and forgotten like other Americans."

"Why 11:45?" asked a woman reporter.

"You're awfully big-hearted," commented the bride.

"Well," said Boettiger, "that gives them just 35 minutes. After that, we want to be forgotten."

The president's new son-in-law then said he hoped the questions would not be of a personal nature. Boettiger and his bride laughed when reporters said they wanted to know "when you decided to marry, where you went and all that."

"That strikes me as a personal matter," said the spokesman of the family.

"Oh," came the reply, "you've asked a lot more personal questions than that in our day."

That brought general laughter, but no answer to the query.

Further questioning brought out that the couple had decided on the wedding date a week ago Sunday when Boettiger returned from a trip to Hollywood.

They were, Boettiger said, a "million things" for him to do in his new position as assistant to Will Hays, czar of the movie industry. At his office it was said, Boettiger did not report for work today, but might be in tomorrow.

Anna Roosevelt Boettiger has not entirely given up her residence at the White House for a small hotel apartment in New York. Her children, Sile and Buzze, will remain with their grandparents at least until the end of the school term, and their mother will visit them frequently. This was disclosed by Mrs. Roosevelt at a press interview earlier today at the White House.

Claude Keith, Auto Crash Victim, Dies

Injuries he received Friday night in an automobile accident resulted in the death Monday afternoon of Claude Keith, 34, of 608 Cameron street. He died at Grady hospital.

The fatality was the fourth this month from automobile accidents inside the city limits of Atlanta. Sixty-five persons were killed in 1934 on the city's streets.

Keith was hurt when the car in which he was riding with Captain W. A. Goodwin, of Des Moines, Iowa, collided with a machine operated by Harry S. Glassman, of 535 Washington street, at Courtland and Cain streets on the night of January 18. He and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, of 869 Parkway drive, were in Glassman's car, were taken to Grady hospital but the Millers were not seriously hurt.

Cases were made against Captain Goodwin and Glassman, and were set for hearing January 23. Goodwin posted a bond of $100, while Glassman was released on a copy of charges.

Funeral arrangements for Keith will be announced by the West Side Funeral Home.

NEW PENSION LAWS FOR CITY DISCUSSED

New pension laws for city employees were discussed by the Fulton county delegation in the general assembly at a special meeting held Monday night to consider local legislation to be offered by the solons.

The delegation referred to an actuary a proposed bill submitted to them by representatives of the fire department, which would create a top pension of $75 for retirement from the fire department after 25 years of service, and a low pension of $15 monthly for retirement after five years.

This bill would provide revenue through a 2 per cent tax on firemen's salaries, five mills out of every dollar collected by the city, and also a

HOME TAX EXEMPTION FAVORED BY JOHNSON

$5,000 tax exemption on homes is favored by Jo Johnson, candidate for tax collector of Fulton county, who Monday issued a short statement telling his qualifications for the position. The statement follows:

To the voters and taxpayers:

I do not believe in the "man seeking the office," but rather the office seeking the man.

I consented to run for tax collector because of the demand made upon me; that I am experienced in tax collections, have all the necessary qualifications to serve you faithfully and intelligently, and that it was my duty to offer my talents.

I leave it to the people. Elect me, and I will use my best efforts to discourage tax $1.75, buyers, and will favor exemption of $5,000 on homes. I will operate the office in the best interests of the people.

Present fire department top pensions amount to $200 monthly. Senator G. Everett Millican, and Representatives William G. Hartsfield, Ralph Ramsey and Bond Almond attended the meeting.

Surplus Funds Are Problem, Insurance Executive Says

High praise was bestowed upon Alfred C. Newell, right, general agent for the Columbian National Life Insurance Company here, upon his record of 30 years of consecutive service with the company, by A. A. McCall, left, vice president of the company, a visitor in Atlanta from his home in Boston Monday.

Insurance companies of the United States have a financial problem on their hands—but the problem is what to do with money invested with them, according to A. A. McCall, vice president of the Columbian National Life Insurance Company, of Boston, an Atlanta visitor Monday.

Mr. McCall, who came here to congratulate Alfred C. Newell, the company's general agent here, on his record of almost 30 years of continuous service with the company, declared that life insurance companies were doing an excellent business, but that

League Adjourns With Work Undone

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Leaving unsettled the protests and demands of three nations for adjudication of international matters, the eighty-fourth session of the League of Nations council adjourned today.

There was a possibility a special session would be called in February in the event France and Germany were unable to agree in direct negotiations on demilitarization of the Saar basin before February 15.

A protest from Iraq that troops from Iran (Persia) had invaded the former country was set over to the next council session.

Ballots used January 13 by Saar voters, more than 500,000 of them, were burned today in the presence of the League of Nations plebiscite commission.

MISSISSIPPI VOIDS ARKANSAS DIVORCES

Court Rules Mail Service on State Resident Is Insufficient

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 21.—(UP)—The Mississippi supreme court, in a sweeping decision, today ruled that Arkansas divorces are invalid in Mississippi, in cases where one party had a legal domicile in this state and is only served with constructive process to appear in the Arkansas court, or with constructive notice of the pendency of divorce suit.

The ruling summarized the Arkansas divorce laws, noting that the statute makes no mention of divorces applicant's intention of making Arkansas his or her permanent home, but merely requires three months' residence before the final decree is granted.

The court also noted that the Arkansas statute permits divorce "on the ground of the other party" of being such indignities to the person as "to render his or her condition intolerable."

"The divorce law of Arkansas ignores the question of domicile or residence animus manendi," the court ruled.

"There is nothing in the public policy of this state that requires a divorce granted under these circumstances on constructive service or process, should be recognized as a dissolution of the matrimonial relations of parties whose matrimonial domicile is in this state. To give such recognition to such a divorce would be contrary to public policy of this state as exemplified by statutory enactments and court decisions."

Robinson Believed To Be in Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Police announced tonight an automobile seized here had been identified as one stolen January 5, in Moline, Ill., and expressed belief a "mysterious woman" who left the automobile a few seconds before they arrived was T. H. Robinson Jr., sought as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, of Louisville, Ky., last October.

A man and a woman, both of whom gave Houston addresses, were being questioned by police at the request of the department of justice. The couple contended that they rented the car in Moline January 5 and had since driven to Texas in it.

A "mysterious woman" who police said they believed was Robinson in disguise got out of the machine in a garage a few seconds before police appeared.

Garage attendants declared they were unable to tell the direction the "mysterious woman" took. An extensive search for her was being conducted tonight.

Opponents Defer Ouster of Moodie

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Governor Thomas H. Moodie's foes decided this was not the day to finish his impeachment.

The decision to hold back came at a caucus of the majority party of his North Dakota legislature, controlled by members of the Nonpartisan league.

Earlier they had planned to put articles of impeachment before the house today and rush them immediately to the senate, which would then try the governor.

Governor Moodie is attacked in the case on the theory that he has not resided in North Dakota as long as the constitution requires.

The house voted a resolution of impeachment Friday, when Governor Moodie had been in office 11 days.

HOTPOINT COMPANY PROMOTES ATLANTAN

Announcement has been made in Chicago of the appointment of J. T. Nee, water heater sales representative in the Atlanta district for the Edison General Electric Appliance Company, to be manager of the company's southwestern sales district with headquarters in Dallas. Mr. Nee has been associated with the Hotpoint Company since 1918, coming to the Atlanta office in the early part of 1926.

FLORIDA TO EXECUTE TWO NEGROES TODAY

RAIFORD, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two negroes, Fred Anderson, 24, and Thomas Jefferson, 22, are listed for execution in Florida's electric chair tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

They were convicted of first-degree murder without a recommendation for mercy following their arrest as the slayers of Carl Schuman, 25-year-old former University of Florida football star, in a drugstore holdup at Jacksonville on the night of November 11.

ARKANSAN KILLED DURING HOTEL BLAZE

EL DORADO, Ark., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Arthur S. Iverson, employed by a dairy company, lost his life today when fire partially destroyed the annex of the Foster hotel here.

His body was found in his room in the annex after firemen had brought the blaze under control. Physicians said he died of burns and asphyxiation. Fully clothed, he was found lying across a bed in the section of the hotel where the flames originated. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

MEN! DON'T LET WOMEN THINK YOU WEAK

When energy is low and you tire easily, Excessive Acidity may be starving your blood.

You can't expect to have a man's pep and endurance if your stomach is excessively acid. Excessive acidity is responsible for so many cases of energy-starved bodies, tired nerves, sluggishness, and lack of action. Your vigor goes because these vile acids in your stomach destroy the gastric fluids, food can't digest, sour, ferment; you get little or no nourishment.

Look out for warning signals of excessive acidity—heartburn, belching, sourness, gas after meals, acid indigestion. These suggest little warnings are telling you that the food you've eaten has formed into undigested clumps, is fermenting, and wasting the vital nourishment that should send power into your body.

You can wipe out that excessive acidity quickly and pleasantly, and help get back the vigorous body that every man admires. Take a teaspoonful of Placidan in water whenever you feel the slightest attack of heartburn, gas, sourness, or belching. It will work wonders from the first swallow. Placidan wipes out the excessive acidity and liquidates undigested lumps of fermenting food. It soothes the stomach. Then you get pep and energy from the food you eat.

Placidan isn't like anything you've ever taken before. PLACIDAN IS BOSS WHAT YOU'VE ALWAYS HOPED REMEDIES WOULD DO FOR YOU. Ask for Placidan at your drugstore today. TAKE IT AND NOTE THE IMMEDIATE CHANGE FOR THE BETTER IN THE WAY YOU FEEL. Placidan is not laxative and contains no sugar.—(adv.)

Mediterranean Cruise and Flower Show in Holland Attracts Atlantans

By Sally Forth.

AT THIS time of the year the thoughts of travelers fly from the winter winds to the warmth and beauty of the Mediterranean and its fascinating ports. Included in the list of well-known people who have engaged passage on February 7, on the steamer Statendam are Mrs. Charles Sisson, Mrs. Emily Robinson Head, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. George Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Oglesby, Miss Frances Schwab, Mrs. Frank Meador and her grandson, George Fletcher, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. George Lanier and the Misses Lucy and Marie Lanier, of West Point; Miss Dorothy Illges, of Columbus; Misses Patty Evans and Elizabeth Rice, of Memphis, Tenn. Highlighting the voyage will be the pilgrimage to the "Land of Tulips," with the International Flower Show at Heemstede in Holland as their objective. The show is held once every 10 years, and the exhibition covers 55 acres in the very heart of the tulip country, with flowering fields on every side. No effort will be spared there in order to demonstrate the use of spring flowers and shrubbery, and the sight almost beggars description.

Mass plantings of bulbs have been made in the main park, and millions of flowers will grace the tremendous lawns, serve as borders to the footpaths and blaze forth in a riot of color from large beds. Old Dutch gardens, rockeries, heather gardens, flower borders along lakes, will create a magnificent panorama with a background of naturalistic woodland plantings. At night, the main flower hall and 27 acres of gardens will be lighted by illuminated fountains and pillars of light, transforming the show into a veritable paradise for the garden lover.

When the Statendam sails from New York, the fascinating shores of the Mediterranean will unfold in the two-month cruise. Madeira, famed for its wines and laces, and the fact that Napoleon stopped there on his way to St. Helena, and that Christopher Columbus lived and was married there, is the first port of call. The travelers will see far-famed Gibraltar and its towering rock of fortifications, and will enter Cadiz, from whence Columbus set sail on his voyage to America. Across the Straits of Gibraltar is Tangier of Morocco and its picturesque bay. Thence to Algiers, once pirate lair of the Barbary coast and North Africa's strange city of narrow streets, windowless houses and shadowed doorways; thence to Palma de Mallorca, halcyon isles and flower kingdom of the Balearics that inspired the music of Chopin, an insular realm in the quaintest of settings. Cannes, the festive carnival town of the sunny Riviera, is the next port of call, and Malta, the symbol of Christianity's eastward march, leads to the visit to Port Said, the gateway to Egypt and the Valley of the Tombs.

The remainder of the itinerary includes the trip to Haifa, port of Palestine, with near-by Jerusalem and the sacred precincts of the Holy Land; Beirut, the ancient Berytus and largest city of Syria, recalling the crusades and Biblical history; Island of Rhodes, colossal mediaeval walled city of antiquity; the Dardanelles straits by daylight; Istanbul, once old Constantinople, city of sultans and eastern capital of the Byzantine empire; through the Bos-phorus to the Black sea, edged by castles built by Mohammed, Turkish princes and pashas; Athens, with architectural jewels of a great artistic age; Corfu, the legendary scene of Homer's Ulysses; Kotor, mediaeval city of the Dalmatian coast where time yawns and slips two centuries back; Dubrovnik, termed "South Slavonic Athens," Yugoslavia's picturesque port; Venice, of blue lagoons and ivory palaces; Messina, Sicily's garden spot; Naples, of beautiful harbors, Isle of Capri, Vesuvius, Pompeii and city of spires, and to Monte Carlo, the famous playground on the Riviera.

GLANCING through the New York newspapers, Sally read with considerable interest of the round of wonderful parties honoring Mrs. Fannie Durand Williams during her recent visit to Mrs. Stuart H. Jones, the former Miss Sally Cobb Johnson, at the Plaza in New York. The terrace room at the Plaza was the mise en scene of Mrs. Jones' luncheon honoring her Atlanta guests, who included figures prominent in national and international social circles, and were Princess of Thurin and Taxis, Princess Djorjaze (whose first husband was William Henry Warner), Mrs. Christian Anchinloss, Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, Mrs. Georgia Lee Parker, Mrs. William R. Cole Jr., Mrs. Lewis Latham Clarke, Mrs. Leroy Springs, Mrs. William F. Battin, Mrs. Frederick W. Nelson, Mrs. N. Dennison Forbes, Mrs. George Lonsdale Stevenson, Mrs. Henry Jefferies and Mrs. Howell Jackson.

At the luncheon given by Mrs. N. Dennison Forbes at the St. Regis, Mrs. Williams was among prominent guests invited to meet Edna May Lewishon, famous for her role in the "Belle of New York" and whose pied-a-terre is London, in which British capital she maintains a residence which is a popular rendezvous for Great Britain's smart set. A tea given by Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh at the Ritz-Carlton, was another compliment to Mrs. Williams.

Attendance at a performance of the current grand opera season on Broadway added luster to Mrs. Williams' visit, for after one performance, the star of the evening, who was none other than the glamorous Rosa Ponsele, invited her Atlanta friend to her dressing room backstage. A kiss was implanted by the famous song bird upon Mrs. Williams, in whose Atlanta home the renowned prima donna was often entertained when she sang here with the Metropolitan Opera Company. Baron Asheberg was among others entertaining honoring the charming Atlanta matron, being host at a cocktail party.

THE arrival of Elizabeth Williams from Hollywood, Cal., never fails to cause a ripple of excitement among her wide circle of friends in Atlanta. Such an interesting life she leads as western editor of those thrilling movie magazines, Silver Screen and Screenland, that a glimpse of her is nothing short of tantalizing, but it seems that a glimpse, a very brief one, is all that Atlanta is privileged to have. Elizabeth is en route to Hollywood from New York, where she spent two glorious weeks at the Algonquin as the guest of the glamorous Carole Lombard, with whom she crossed the continent. The two started the long journey by air, but the luxurious transcontinental plane in which they traveled was forced down in New Mexico by an impenetrable fog, and the trip had to be completed by train.

A round of smart teas, luncheons, dinners, and after-theater parties was planned for the star and her guest in New York. In between times, Elizabeth renewed many friendships, for she resided in the metropolis for several years before going to the western coast.

A gorgeous Christmas gift bestowed upon the popular screen writer, which Sally was privileged to see, was the beautiful wrist watch presented by her close friend, Claudette Colbert. Set in platinum, the tiny face of the watch is surrounded by baguette diamonds, and is clasped to her wrist by a band of smaller diamonds. Numerous and hand-some were other gifts from members of the screen colony, testifying to Elizabeth's personal magnetism, as well as to her ability as a writer.

Alfred H. Colquitt U. D. C. Holds Meeting.

The Alfred H. Colquitt U. D. C. chapter met in the Dixie ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel on Saturday to honor the birthday of the south's greatest leader, Robert E. Lee, with Mrs. Fred Hanson presiding. Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandersville, past president, gave the invocation, and General Lee's favorite hymn was sung with Mrs. Kate Massey at the piano. Crosses of military service were given to six World War veterans who were descendants of Confederate veterans. An appropriate patriotic program was carried out. Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of G. M. A. in College Park, gave the speech of acceptance, and praised General Lee most highly.

Mrs. T. W. Reed, of Athens, state president, presented the crosses and paid tribute to General Lee and to Alfred H. Colquitt, another great southerner for whom the chapter is named. Mrs. P. S. Arkwright, daughter of Alfred H. Colquitt, presented Mrs. Reed with a corsage of gardenias. Honored guests were Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandersville; Mesdames G. D. T. Quimby, Moreland Spear, A. J. D. Woodward, Howard McCutcheon and others.

Mrs. McCutcheon's Tea Honors Mrs. Garwood.

One of a series of lovely affairs given for Mrs. J. G. Garwood, of Kansas City, Mo., a former resident of Atlanta, was the tea given by her sister, Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, on Tuesday afternoon.

The beautifully appointed tea table was graced in the center by an exquisite silver epergne filled with white roses and yellow snapdragons. Presiding over the coffee and coffee services were Mrs. J. H. Beasley and Mrs. Harold Fields, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Spurlock, Mrs. H. C. Clark and Mrs. Mary Daniel. More than 50 guests called during the afternoon. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mesdames J. W. Shelor, A. Moritz, L. O. Hargis, W. L. Alecutt, J. H. Keel and J. M. Nash Jr.

Tea-Dance Planned.

An event of the week will be the tea-dance at which Miss Kathleen Griffin will entertain Thursday afternoon at Margaret Bryan's studio. Mrs. Carroll Griffin, mother of the hostess, Mrs. John N. Holden, her grandmother; Mrs. Brainard K. Clapp and Mrs. Howard See will assist in the entertainment of the guests who will include 200 members of the younger set.

Members of Legal Sorority Entertained.

Members of the Iota Tau Tau national legal sorority and their dates were entertained this week-end by Miss Frances Maddox, in Stone Mountain. Miss Janette Lane, of the Atlanta chapter, recently entertained out-of-state members, Miss Elsie Jones, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Nelle Carson, of Chattanooga, Tenn. At the last business meeting, a resolution was passed to advise Congressman Robert Ramspeck that the women lawyers of the sorority are in favor of some provision being made for aged persons. Although not entirely in favor of the Townsend bill, they believe it has merit, and that speakers from the chapter will be furnished to speak upon the subject. A committee was appointed to investigate available quarters for a clubroom. A sizeable volume of law books were donated by the members of the sorority toward a circulating legal library for the benefit of the girls in school, those who have legal connections and those in the actual practice of law. Plans were formulated for a con-

Egleston Auxiliary Holds Annual Meet

Auxiliary of the Henrietta Egleston hospital met in annual session in the nurses' home on Monday, with Mrs. Beverly DuBois, president, presiding. In this hospital for children there are 48 free beds and eight pay beds, so a very large percentage of the work is charity. Miss Jesse Candlish, the excellent superintendent of Egleston hospital, reported that as the hospital enters its seventh year of service, 5,040 patients have been cared for. Of these patients 862 have been taken care of in 1934. These patients have come from 225 Georgia towns and from Florida, Tennessee, South Carolina and Alabama. Many have been peculiar and difficult cases and many little lives have been saved. A fund in order that the chapter may have a representative number of delegates and visitors at the 1935 convention, to be held in Los Angeles, Cal.

by the earnest work, mostly without remuneration, of this institution. Under the able leadership of Mrs. Paul Hulfish, different women's organizations of the city have given generously of their time in sewing for the hospital. Mrs. Hulfish reported that 2,500 garments were made in 1934. The Junior League, always generous with Egleston hospital, has done much for it in 1934, as in previous years. Many friends of the hospital were generous with money, toys, fruit and other things at Christmas time.

While the membership of the auxiliary is large and is composed of earnest and sincere workers, there is work and more work for any who is interested in a worth-while cause.

Annual Meeting.

Annual Meeting of Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Atlanta met Wednesday at St. Philip's Pro-Cathedral. Reports of various departments and of the general convention as well as an address by the Rev. C. C. J. Carpenter, of Savannah, will occur Wednesday. On Thursday, the election of diocesan officers for the next

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

After an endless interval of waiting, an elevator door banged. Then Johnston passing to remark carefully:

"Hard at it, eh? Not ready to ride down, I guess."

"Not quite, thank you. I'll use the stairs."

Jean waited breathlessly until another clang of the elevator door came to her straining ears. Johnston must have gone down to the third. She extinguished her light.

The moment had come.

How unfamiliar the dress department, with its few lights burning. The racks and cases shrouded in their ghostly dust sheets. Silence everywhere. Jean ran lightly over the carpeted floor and gained the stair well. She sped noiselessly up the two flights, opened a door and found herself peering cautiously into a corridor. The offices. Rows of doors, all tightly closed. No sounds of life. She slipped like a shadow along the wall until she gained Sturges's room.

It was very nearly dark in there, except for a dull glow from the street. Jean closed the door noiselessly and drew a deep breath.

Her fingers were steady as she located the switch button on the stair wall. One swift inspection and her heart sank. The glass top held no papers of any description. A sob of disappointment welled in her throat.

Was it all for nothing, then?

Another despairing glance at the desk top resulted in a discovery. The shallow center was open a trifle. Jean drew it out farther, peeped within.

A pale blue envelope!

Smothering a cry of exultation, she snatched it out and held it under the light. It bore an address in curious cramped handwriting:

"M. Sturges, Private."

Delicately had been here; Jean thrust the letter in the front of her dress. She must close the drawer, be very sure . . .

Oh . . . !

A frightened gasp escaped her as the room suddenly blazed with light.

Then watching from the doorway, was Spencer Cannon. His fat finger still rested on the wall switch.

Jean stared with horrified fascination at the pale eyes peering at her unwinkingly.

"Well young woman?" purred a soft voice.

She stood frozen in her tracks. No sound came from her parted lips.

"It is very interesting to find that we have a sneak-thief in the store," Cannon resumed gently. "What is your name?"

No answer.

"Then perhaps I can guess. Is it . . . Sawyer?"

Jean nodded dumbly.

"I was sure of it. Let me see what you have taken before I . . . He padded toward her on his penguin-like feet, hand held out.

Made desperate by fear, Jean attempted to dash for freedom. Pudgy fingers clamped down on her shoulder, tightened like claws of iron.

"Would you?"

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

LIGHTING THE NIGHT.

II—In Ancient Times.

Among the Egyptian pictures which have come down to the present day is one which shows a man holding a lantern, to light the way of soldiers.

Some Roman lamps were of the low, almost flat, Greek type; but the Romans had many lamps with stands and with legs. Often there were handles on Roman lamps, and some were fitted to hang from the ceiling.

Ancient lamps were often of graceful form, and were adorned with little figures above lids which covered the oil.

housings in some of the public buildings in Rome were fitted with tall stands in the general form of modern floor lamps; but the light came from a horn, tin, or from electric bulbs. What would the Romans have said if they had been given a strong electric light, just one! Surely it would have seemed "a wonder of the world."

A large number of ancient lamps were made from clay, especially of the "terra cotta" sort. Others were fashioned from metal, chiefly bronze. The oil, as a rule, was taken from animal fat or from olives. The wicks were cut from reeds, or were twisted threads.
